Attorney For Mrs. Thaw Declares Thaw's Latest Move Is a Surprise, For As Late As January, He And Mrs. Thaw Blocked Attempt of Thaw

BULLETIN.

Pittsburgh, March 15.—(United Press)—Mrs. Mary C. Thaw, 82-year-old mother of Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, and former husband of Evelyn Nesbit, today admitted that she would aid her son to obtain his freedom from the Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane at Philadelphia.

"Yes, Harry has asked for a trial by jury to test his sanity and later when arrangements are made, we will make a statement," Mrs. Thaw said. "No one has been associated with him for the past few years and there is no doubt as to the result of such a test should be."

"I did not want anything done until the Frederick Gump case was finished. When I saw it was going to drag on, I myself, settled it by paying $15,000 which completed their demand of $25,000. It was an outrage, but I did it voluntarily. The trustees had settled $10,000 which was plenty, in fact, $5,000 would have been enough, but the family held out for $25,000 and finally I took supplement of the trustees' amount with a contribution of my own."

Philadelphia, March 15.—(United Press)—On April 10, Harry K. Thaw, killer of Stanford White, will go on trial again in an attempt to establish his sanity and secure his legal release from the Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane here. He has been granted a jury trial in response to a petition which he himself signed and which states he "has been restored to a sound state of mind and is capable of managing his own affairs."

Thaw is supported in this move by his mother, Mrs. Mary C. Thaw, who, until recently, opposed any attempt on the part of her son to obtain his release from the asylum. The petition was sent from Pittsburgh, where Thaw is now visiting his mother. It is possible that Thaw may never return to the hospital as he has asked his mother to apply for an extension of his present "vacation." Since Mrs. Thaw is legally the "committee of his person" for her son, by court appointment, any transfer of him while he is legally a lunatic is made only at her request.

Judge James G. Gordon, attorney for Mrs. Thaw, declares this latest move on the part of Thaw is a complete surprise to him and that as late as January he and Mrs. Thaw blocked an attempt on the part of Thaw to gain his freedom.

Thaw's absence from the asylum here was not generally known. Court permission allowing him to make the trip to Pittsburgh was granted March 5 and he left the hospital more than a week ago, carefully avoiding all publicity. Up to the time he left the hospital Mrs. Thaw is declared to have steadfastly refused to join him in an attempt to regain his liberty.

If Thaw gains his freedom here he may have to face a criminal charge in New York of kidnapping and kidnapping Frederick Gump, Jr., a 17-year-old boy, who was kidnapped from his home in New York City.

TALKS ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Miss S. Minnemeyer of the Westminster Guild, secretary of Young People's Branch of the Pittsburgh Presbyterian church, gave an interesting talk last evening in the Sunday School room of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church, when the local Circle met in a covered dish social.

There was a fine attendance, and the table on which the bountiful supper was served, was very tastefully adorned and decorated.

Miss Minnemeyer gave a beneficial talk on the election of officers for the Circle. Miss Gertrude Trenton entertained with several violin selections, accompanied on the piano by her sister, Miss Margaret Trenton. The enjoyable meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the new Circle hymn.

Forty or Fifty Drowned When Train On Bridge Struck By A Cyclone

London, March 15.—(United Press)—Between 40 and 50 passengers are reported to have been drowned when a train crossing a bridge three miles from Careilly, India, was struck by a cyclone, according to news agency dispatches from Delhi. About 50 others are reported to have been injured. Three coaches of the train were blown into the river and submerged, and two others toppled over on the dry river bed, impounding the passengers.

Owing to the fact that many bodies are still under water, it is impossible to estimate the death toll with any accuracy.

Signs Of A Good Year Are Ahead

Prospects of a successful industrial year in this district are steadily increasing due to the unfilled orders for steel of the United States Steel Corporation, which declares the unfilled orders for the first quarter of 1924 exceeded 4,912,901 tons, a gain of 114,472 over January of the present year. Valley mills are operating steadily and a production scale somewhat in excess of the normal output is being maintained. Several plants are not operating in full due to the annual repair work for winter repairs. However, it is expected every plant in the Monongahela valley will be producing steel in excess of last year's production records during the spring and summer.

An urgent demand for steel is reported throughout the United States and foreign countries, while the greatest demand for finished materials comes from the Pittsburgh district. Despite the size of the unfilled orders which have accumulated it was indicated in the report of the United States Steel Corporation that deliveries in February were well above those of the previous month.

"ONE NIGHT ONLY" PLEASES

The second and final performance of the play, "For One Night Only," was very successfully presented at the High School Auditorium last night. The play was given under the auspices of the Star class of the First Christian church.

The play centered around one portrayed by Thomas Barrow, who in his younger days at college, was the author of a Roman tragedy and had been forgotten for many years, until one Spartan Spots, played by Earl Nicholson, who, in his usual pleasing manner greatly pleased his audience. Mr. Nicholson took the part of a theatrical manager who, on information received by Rosa, a maid servant in the home of Professor Goldwinney, and which part was well played by Miss Isabelle Liever, discovers that the professor has wonderful talent as a play-writer, and while the professor's wife, Miss Emma Vogel, which part was also well rendered, and his daughter, Paula very well portrayed by Miss Cornelia Michener, are away. Spots undertakes to produce the professor's play. This leads to many funny situations which bring forth considerable laughter from the audience. The climax is finally reached when the professor's wife and daughter return home unexpectedly. The professor's eldest daughter, by Miss Margaret Berryman, was very well taken as Miss Berryman went into the case after the illness of one of the members. Her husband, Doctor Newman, played by Ernest Howard, has had quite a past and in order to satisfy her the doctor, together with Jack Harkins, played by "Bill" Johns, who needs no introduction among the amateurs for his work, who was a former friend of the doctor, draws the past made to order. This is the cause of many laughs. The professor's chance acquaintance with one Charles Harkins, a lawyer from New York played by Loren Tope in his usual highly interesting manner, together with the professor's youngest daughter, Paula, both of whom were very much needed in the working out of the funny situation. A round of confessions and explanations bring the successful four-act comedy to a close.

An added attraction was the musical program. A tenor solo by W. R.

BLUE LAWS ARE ON IN ELIZABETH BOROUGH

Burgess Taylor, of Elizabeth, has issued an edict that all places of business must be closed on Sunday under the act of 1784 and also under the special act for Allegheny county passed and approved in 1871. The burgess has issued notices that the two acts will be strictly enforced.

A WAITING ROOM FOR HIS HONOR

In connection with the removal of the district attorney's office in the court house from the location where it has been since the court house was occupied, to a suite of rooms being provided at the northwest corner on the second floor, in a former grand jury room, a door is being provided at the northwest corner on the second floor in a former grand jury room, a door is being cut through from Judge Erwin Cummins' room to the private waiting room of the district attorney.

This room was to be used by the district attorney, will be used as a waiting room of Judge Cummins' chamber. The door is cut through what was a coat closet in the chamber, and a storage closet on the district attorney's side.

Judge Brownson and Judge Cummins both have felt the need of a waiting room. There is no place else where such a room could be provided for Judge Brownson's chamber. The room that corresponds to Judge Cummins new waiting room is the waiting room and stenographer's and auditor's room of the orphans court.

J. Boyd Crumrine, president judge. Heretofore persons waiting to see Judge Cummins have had to lounge about in the corridor, or otherwise breaking in on those already in the judge's room. It also meant that the judge had no privacy when busy on opinions or other work, when he did not care to be disturbed. With a waiting room there will be a tipstaff there at all times when the court is in chambers, and unnecessary interruption of the judge will be stopped. Persons having business with the court will be admitted in their turn.

Judge Brownson, to avoid interruption, frequently goes to his room, outside the court house that he may work without distraction.

During court, if necessary, a waiting room can be used for jury service.

DANCING AN OLYMPIC SPORT

Paris, March 15.—(United Press)—At last there looms a chance for the "cake eaters" to do something for their country. A movement has been started here to put dancing on the program of the Olympic games. If it goes through the dear boys of Broadway can come tripping over and cloud the fame of Pat Ryan and Ted Meredith as point winners for their flag—if any.

And why not? asks La Liberté. "Why ban, in a manifestation designed to present men of the greatest speed, greatest agility and most vigor, the virtuoso of movement that is found in dancing. Is it because the movement of elegance and charm is not wanted?"

It is pointed out that the ancient Greeks, who first started the games, greatly stressed the harmony of gesture in their athletes. The writer insists that dancing is a sport, since grace and endurance are required.

A canvass of popular artists and writers indicates a preponderance of opinion in favor of dancing as an entry on the games' program.

CUDDY HANDS ZABISH LACING

Cuddy DeMarco settled the mooted argument of who is the better man, by defeating most decisively, Angie Young Zabish at the Southside, Pittsburgh, Market house last night. Cuddy was so completely the master of Zabish as to leave no room for argument.

The boys met before, and it was said that the bout at this time was indecisive. But there was nothing indecisive about the mill last night, both the Post and the Gazette-Times agreeing that DeMarco won hands down. And now, like Alexander the Great, Cuddy is ready to conquer.

Zabish was willing and anxious, but DeMarco was too clever, and would not allow Zabish to put over his reputed haymaker. At the conclusion of the match, Cuddy did not have a scratch, while Zabish showed visible effects of the encounter. DeMarco took every round of the bout.

WHILE COUNTRY SUFFERS.

This country is in the throes of a scandal, the ramifications of which threaten to enmesh men whose character is considered above reproach. The scandal revolves around alleged illegal methods employed in the leasing of government oil holdings at Teapot Dome in the state of Wyoming, and while the Senate Investigating committee is busily engaged on the one hand in subpoenaing witnesses, and revealing all being done by new witnesses, camouflage and vilification has thus far accomplished nothing, if the resignation of Secretary Denby of the Navy alone, is excepted. Denby's resignation was brought about through courtesy to relieve the President of embarrassment, of one lot of guilt being placed against him. The only thing that could be said against Denby is that he may have been imposed upon by Harry F. Sinclair, et al, as to his province in official position.

Political demagogues had Daugherty resigning every day—and still he hasn't resigned. The effect of the scandal is for the public to lose confidence in the country's statesmen, and to demand that men be elected to office, not political demagogues, but having that intrinsic ability and merit which marked the record of their predecessors.

Instead of transacting the people's and the country's business, Washington legislators are subverting their functions in trying to get at something, and even they admit that their investigations are likely to fail. There are people who court notoriety; people who know a little about the big fellow, and who are willing, for the prominence it gives them to "testify" of what they know about the machinations of the heads of the nation. But all this proves—nothing. The Teapot Dome scandal has involved more men in its tentacles, dragged them from their lofty positions to points where they are looked upon with suspicion. Men who are the very soul of honor. The breath of scandal touches them because it makes political enemies. The Democratic press has made, and is making, all the political capital they can from the Teapot Dome allegations; and still, if there are some guilty Republicans, some of the Democratic heads are as "deep in the mud as the Republicans are in the mire."

If there is something crooked about the dealings of men, certain officials and financiers, relative to the Teapot Dome operations, they should be punished. But vilifications and innuendoes are not proof, and in the meantime the wheels of national progress are clogged, public confidence in our nation's heads is shaken, and shameful, scandalous stories are told reflecting on men loyal and true. Demagoguery at Washington should be succeeded by statesmanship; let truth prevail: it is not wholesome and just to connect every reputable man's name with alleged crookedness. Ferret out the guilty, but do not let the innocent suffer with the guilty; and save the country from the suffering and uncertainty which the Teapot Dome scandal has brought about.

Before visiting the nuncio the archbishops received several prominent members of the American colony.

The LONG KNIVES

THE Indians called them "The Long Knives," those fearless, trail-blazing soldiers of "Mad Anthony" Wayne's Army, whose gleaming bayonets the Redskins so dreaded. Real pioneers they were, fighting the war of the border through trackless woods along the Ohio River in 1793. It is well for us to read a story like this, and to visualize conditions in our own home territory only 130 years ago—to see how the bold frontier men and women lived in places with which we are all familiar, how they lived the life with fire by side, now hundreds were victims of the savage redmen and how finally they founded the numerous towns and cities of the world's greatest industrial center. THE SUN has purchased from the author the first newspaper serial rights to the story in America. It has not been printed in book form and will not be for several months.

THE man who tells the story is one of the spies of "Mad Anthony" and the author, Hugh Pendexter, knows how to paint a vivid word-picture of pioneer life, pioneer warfare and pioneer romance. Every boy and girl, every parent and teacher, every red-blooded reader who loves historical romance will want to read this stirring tale of home scenes and history which commences next Monday—March 17—in

THE PITTSBURGH SUN

What's the Hurry?

"Why are you adding so many telephones now? Why are you putting up so many new buildings? Why all this expansion? Why not wait until conditions may be more favorable?"

Here's the answer:
We have no control over the demands for telephone service.

As a public utility we must provide a high-grade communication service for those who have telephones; and we must meet the demands for new service when and where they come.

The people of Pennsylvania are saving to us "We want telephones"—more and more telephones.

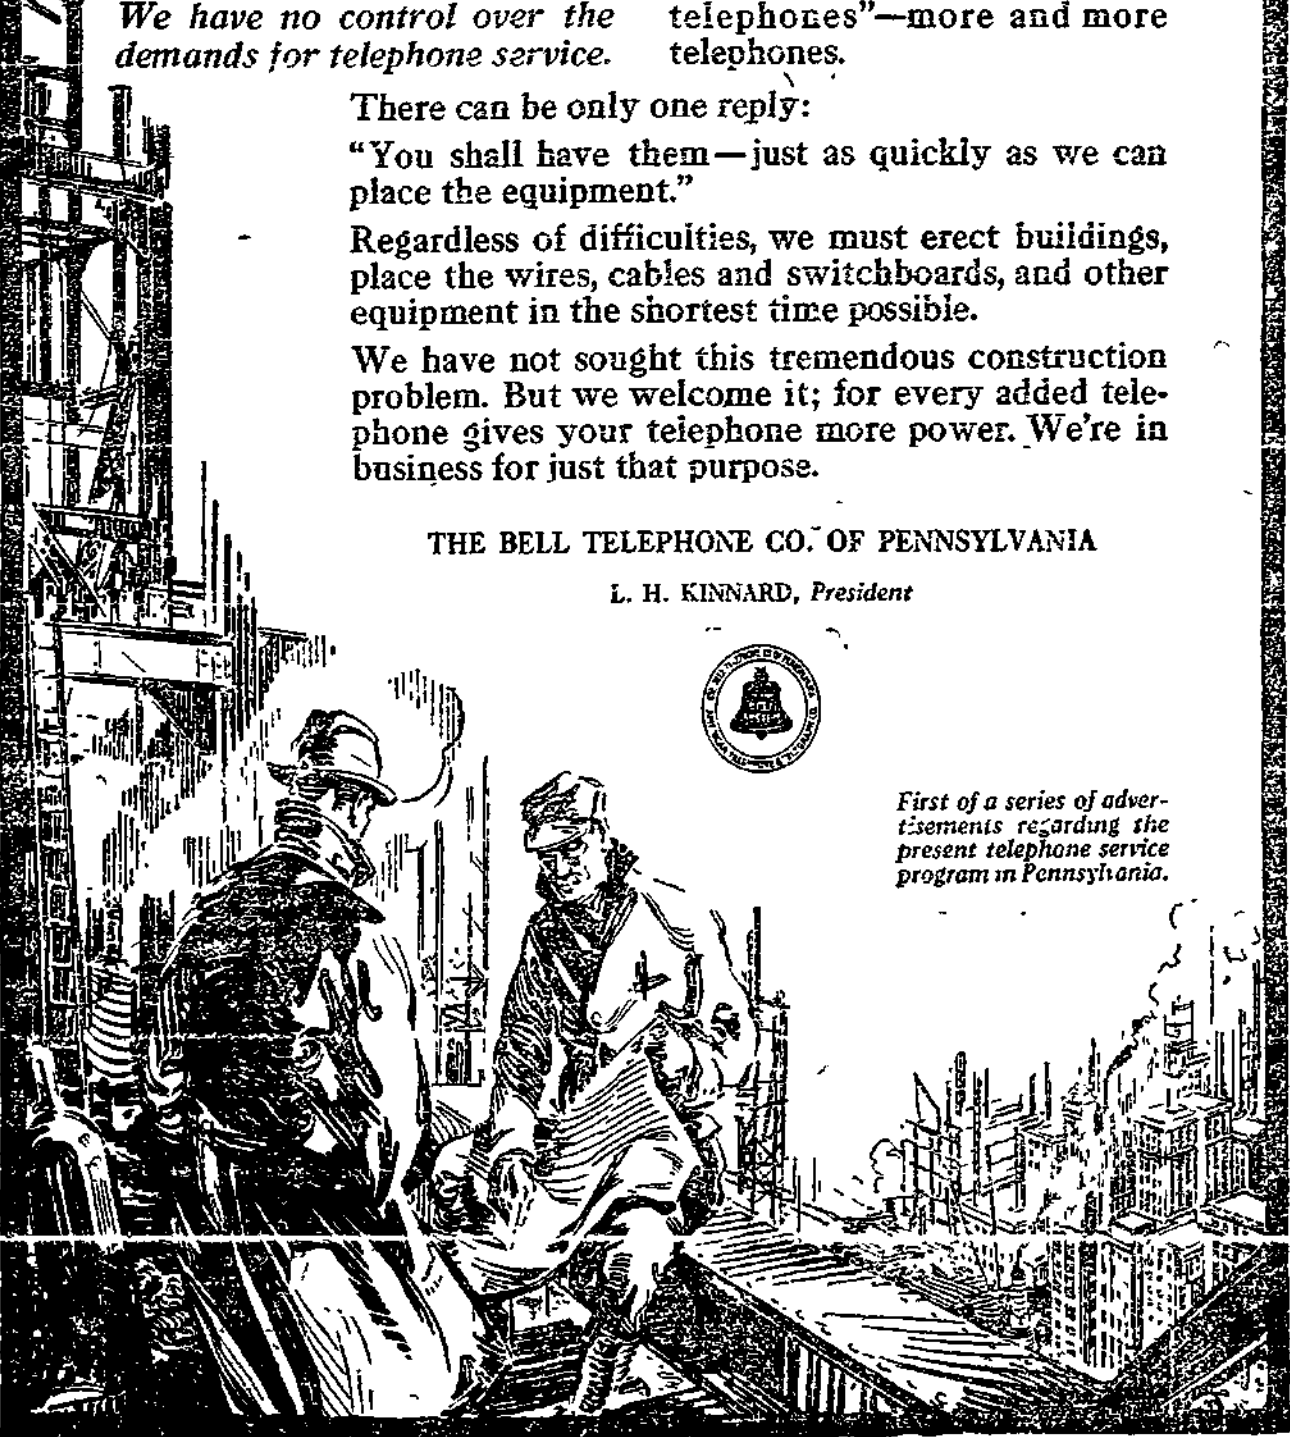

There can be only one reply:
"You shall have them—just as quickly as we can place the equipment."

Regardless of difficulties, we must erect buildings, place the wires, cables and switchboards, and other equipment in the shortest time possible.

We have not sought this tremendous construction problem. But we welcome it; for every added telephone gives your telephone more power. We're in business for just that purpose.

Mrs. S. W. Smith of Warner Stop left last evening for Connellsville to spend the week-end with her mother, Mrs. N. S. Richey of that place. She was accompanied by Mr. Smith to his home immediately.

John Rush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rush of Meadow avenue, a youth 16 years of age, was operated on for appendicitis at the CharleROI-Monessen hospital on Monday. His condition is satisfactory.

Miss Frances Vogel, daughter of Mrs. Vogel of Crest avenue was taken to the St. Francis hospital, Pittsburgh yesterday, where she will undergo treatment. Miss Vogel has been ill for a number of weeks, having sustained injuries when she fell on the slippery pavement some time ago.

In Society's Realm

At her home in Broad street, Belle Vernon, last evening, Mrs. Joseph Baffoni entertained a number of her CharleROI and Belle Vernon friends to help celebrate her birthday anniversary. There were 15 guests present who spent a delightful evening in dancing and games. A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Baffoni, in conclusion. She received many useful gifts.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Hilda S. Heywood, of Monessen, and James L. Kimmins, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Kimmins, of 714 Fallowfield avenue, which took place in Washington, Pa., November 7. The ceremony was performed at the time mentioned unknown to their many friends, and has but recently been made known. The young couple are now housekeeping at 307 Lincoln avenue. The groom is a well known employe of the Kieck-McJunkin Dairy Company of this place.

Mrs. Edwin Davies of 326 Lincoln avenue entertained with a surprise party last evening in the basement of the Baptist church in honor of her daughter Kathryn, who celebrated her 19th birthday anniversary yesterday. The room was very prettily decorated with various colors, making an attractive scene for the occasion. The twenty-two guests present spent a happy evening in games, at the close of which a dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. Davies assisted by Mrs. Frank Hardcastle and the honored guest's Sunday School teacher, Miss Pauline Pieper. The feature of the luncheon was the birthday cake which varied from the cake made of the usual ingredients. It was very pretty and was made of ice cream. Candy dolls were given as favors. The party, which began at 7 o'clock, came to a close at 10 and the guests departed wishing Miss Kathryn many more happy birthdays. She received many lovely gifts.

Extreme merriment and delightful frivolity marked the Annual Mother's party of the Arachne Circle of the First Presbyterian church, held last evening at the home of Miss Edith Hopkins of Meadow avenue. The decorating committee, headed by Miss Mary Cantoni, had changed the appearance of the interior of the rooms with shamrocks, pipes, hats, and the like in observance of St. Patrick's day and the effect was a very beautiful one. A varied program of games was enjoyed by the party. Miss Ellen Clark, Grace Anderson and Florence Clark had charge of the entertainment. The evening was concluded with the serving of an excellent luncheon, appointments being carried out in green. Those who had charge of this feature were Mrs. Ed. Dieters, chairlady, Mrs. Paul Kimmins, Miss Margaret McMahon and Miss Edith Hopkins. The out-of-town visitors present were Mrs. William Davis of Pittsburgh and Mrs. Charles Baker of McKeesport.

PHOTOPLAY IS MOST STARTLING

The age-old argument as to whether or not a wife has the right to demand of her husband the same rigidity of standards as he demands of her, or to do the same as he does forms the sensational theme of "Flaming Youth," a powerful story of modern unconventional life which comes next week to the Majestic Theatre, next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

"Flaming Youth," vividly dramatic screen version of Warner Fabian's daring novel, is considered one of the outstanding photoplays of the year. It is amazingly frank, and while it is not a preaching against the mode of living in certain circles of present-day American life, it no less points to the ever-growing abandonment of the conventions on the part of the younger generations.

Sermons have been preached on the topic which forms the basis of the sensational play, yet "Flaming Youth" is not a sermon. It is clear-cut entertainment, dealing with a vivid type of American men and women.

"Flaming Youth" is a story of a mother and her three daughters—all unconventional to a more or less degree. The father, as though for full measure, is inclined toward a fondness for women in no way connected with his own family.

Told in a frank and interesting way, "Flaming Youth" subtly drives home the lesson that conventionalities, though bodesome, are necessary for the preservation of the home.

Colleen Moore plays the leading part in this powerful First National picture. Other members of the brilliant all-star cast are Milton Sills, Elliott Dexter, Myrtle Stedman, Sylvia Breamer, Betty Francisco, Phillips Smalley, Walter McGrail, Ben Lyon and others.

"Flaming Youth," a First National picture, was directed by John Francis Dillon, one of the most noteworthy directors of this type of pictures in the motion picture industry.

HORSE OF 50 IN FINE SHAPE

Catawissa, Pa., Mar. 15—(United Press)—Clover, the oldest horse in the world, survived his 51st winter in fine shape, according to his owner, Rev. Myers, retired clergyman, who runs a poultry farm here.

Clover wears two blankets in winter and has his box stall lined with straw. He is exercised regularly and given warm food every day, but aside from the temperature of the food is like that of any other equine.

The horse still has his full mane and tail and all his teeth. There is not a blemish on him. After passing his 20th birthday, Clover covered two miles over an ordinary dirt road, pulling a buggy with two men in it, in the remarkable time of 4.24. Until recent years Dr. Myers used the horse for driving.

"The Jockey Club of New York has pensioned the animal. Rev. Myers is said to have been offered $1,000 for his hide when 'the oldest horse' was 40 years old."

Mrs. Warren G. Harding, widow of the late President, some time ago sent $100 to provide comforts for the horse.

Clover, Rev. Myers said, is anxiously looking forward to the warm days of spring when he will be allowed to roam the pastures again and take a nip of the newly-sprouted grass.

Rev. Myers is writing a book on "The Psychology of the Horse."
